Devotional Thought: The Purpose of Prayer

This devotional is brought to you by Pacific Press® Publishing Association.

Prayer that pleases God frees my thinking from revolving around the "I." It allows me to become honest with myself and with God. In the light of His love and His holiness, I begin to see myself differently. Gently I move toward the true purpose of prayer: not the fulfillment of my wishes but the relationship with the life-changing God. To pray in this way fills my life with the knowledge that He is the center of my life. My thoughts and wishes are in accordance with Him. To pray in this way is a real challenge. . . . Often the fulfillment of my wishes is more important than my relationship with Him.

However, prayer that pleases God has God at its center. It opens up new perspectives. When I consciously think about His character, His qualities and abilities, and express my adoration for them in my own words, my prayers are filled with spiritual life and even have an element of reverence and admiration that goes along with them. No longer are my problems and needs the center of my prayers, but God is the center.
